Experimenting with the Living Newspaper

We're creating new theater this week with a group of theater artists, a collaborating company, and a residency on Governor's Island in the New York harbor.

Using the the techniques of the Living Newspaper, we're shaping new work on reproductive freedom and intersectional women's issues. We'll be creating it through devising and improvisational styles, using blog and newspaper articles as the starting point.

We're collaborating with Joan Kane of Ego Actus Theatre Company, and part of the Laboratorium on Governor's Island, created by Rising Sun Performance Company.

On Sept. 8 and 9, at 1 pm and 3 pm, we'll do work-in-progress performances of our work. It's free! Join us! (Bldg 6a Nolan Lane, Governor's Island -- get a ferry for $0 to $3).

Good news! We will be publishing 34 short selections from our Reproductive Freedom Festival in a new and accessible format.

Each of the selections -- on a range of topics -- will again be available for people to read or to consider for their own events (with writer permission). And none too soon!

More details to come soon.
